DPS employees say . . .

When my co-workers and I were reviewed in year 3 of CCMR II, a number of us in Facilities had been members of the AHPA for many years. It became apparent that the Department was not going to treat our group the same as the previous years of CCMR II. The AHPA did not fight for us at LEMSC meetings. Instead, the AHPA sympathized with the Department over lack of funds and on one occasion actually spoke against raises proposed for some individuals, saying they were too high. Even though I was not an F.O.P. member at the time, several individuals from the F.O.P. actively supported us in our fight, including the President of F.O.P. and one of the Arizona Labor Council attorneys. The F.O.P. folks spoke on our behalf at many LEMSC meetings that spring, and were, I believe, highly instrumental in convincing the Department to fund our raises that year at almost 93% instead of the 89% initially proposed.

I resigned from AHPA and joined the F.O.P. that year and have never regretted my decision. The F.O.P. proved to me that they will speak out when they see someone being treated unfairly, whether that person is sworn or civilian, a member or not. Sue LeHew, Facilities Management Bureau

On 04/18/04 I was involved in a critical incident. My F.O.P. representative and lawyer were notified and responded to my aid before I was even taken to the hospital. My F.O.P. representative and lawyer met with me at the hospital hours before any investigative interviews were conducted. My lawyer was with me at my investigative interviews and remained with me all day until I went home. The F.O.P. lawyer was awesome! Because F.O.P. legal plan worked for me I'm a F.O.P. member. Frank Greigo, Wikieup Highway Patrol Officer

On 05/26/05 I was involved in a serious critical incident. My F.O.P. representative responded immediately. My F.O.P. lawyer was able to consult with me during my investigative interviews. My F.O.P. lawyer was present at all my investigative interviews. The F.O.P. is a nationwide organization. The F.O.P. will take

need them. Brendan Page, Kingman Highway Patrol Officer

As a former AHPA representative, I should be representing DPS. The Labor Council under the AHPA is the board of directors of the AHPA, more than a benevolent organization. We should have any representation in the state, we could never expect to be fooled! If you vote for the AHPA, you are really take advantage of the AHPA organization to represent DPS. That won't make it happen. That won't make it happen. Officer Tom Larson, Healdsburg
